From Pinochet in the House of Lords to the Chevron/ Ecuador Lago Agrio Dispute: The Hottest Topics in International Dispute Resolution

CHARLES N. BROWER

Arbitrator, 20 Essex Street Chambers,
Iran-United States Claims Tribunal

Charles N. Brower has been a Judge of the Iran-United States Claims Tribunal in The Hague since 1983 and has served as Judge Ad Hoc of the Inter-American Court of Human Rights. He has been Acting Legal Adviser of the United States Department of State, Deputy Special Counsellor to the President of the United States, and a member of the United States Secretary of State's Advisory Committee on Public International Law, of the Register of Experts of the United Nations Compensation Commission and the Panels of Arbitrators and Conciliators of the International Centre for Settlement of Investment Disputes.

He is a past President of the American Society of International Law and Chair of the Advisory Board of the Institute for Transnational Arbitration. He is a former partner and Special Counsel at White & Case LLP in both New York City and Washington, DC, where he handled litigation in federal and state courts throughout the United States, including jury trials, bench trials and appeals, in a wide range of civil, administrative, and criminal proceedings, while specializing during the last 30 years in the handling of disputes involving States or State entities before international courts, tribunals and commissions. He is also a member of 20 Essex Street Chambers in London.

Lunchtime lectures last for about 45 minutes and are followed by discussion. Lectures are open to the public. Participants are invited to bring their own (brown-bag) lunches. Unless otherwise stated, lectures take place in the Library of the Institute for Public International Law, Juridicum, East Tower, 4th floor, Adenauerallee 24-42, Bonn.
